Performance Notes

General

   sixth tone (33 cents) lower than   , approximating an untempered 7th partial quarter tone lower

 quarter tone higher

(p7 of G), (p11 of G) Indicates that the performer should try to approximate the intonation of an untempered 7th or 11th partial of the given fundamental. In the case of transposing instruments, the reference fundamental is given in concert pitch. The horn players should produce these partials without correcting the intonation.

 All trills are half-step trills.

Winds

t. An alternate fingering trill (also known as a timbre trill or microtonal trill)

Brass

○-----→+ Gradually cover the opening of the harmon mute with one hand.

Strings

 and  should always be interpreted as unmeasured tremolo.

All glissandi start immediately, at the beginning of the note value. Notes in parentheses show the general speed or pace of the glissando, but should not be emphasized in any way.

 Play the given rhythm exactly in time while making a glissando from the first to last pitch.

Program Notes

"Sleeping I am carried..." is based on a melodic fragment from Alban Berg's Mombert setting "Schlafend trägt man mich," Op. 2, no. 2. I scatter references to this melody throughout, but perhaps most noticeable is the poetic connection between Mombert's imagery and the atmosphere and form of my piece. In a dream, Mombert's speaker traverses a great distance to return home, passing over a landscape whose rough outlines and blurry forms appear only in peripheral vision. My piece transports the listener through a hazy sonic landscape of overlapping musical ideas. One idea emerges and comes into focus, only to disappear again, as another comes to the fore. Wispy lines in the strings and flutes wind around each other, and rumbles ascend from the depths of the orchestra. In a moment of clarity near the end, Berg's vocal line appears complete as the bass line of a radiant chorale. This subsides, and the piece comes to rest on an extended melody in the strings, concluding with a final evaporation of the dream world.

Schlafend trägt man mich	Sleeping, I am carried
in mein Heimatland!	to my homeland.
Ferne komm ich her,	From afar I come,
über Gipfel, über Schlünde,	over peaks, over depths,
über ein dunkles Meer	over a dark sea
in mein Heimatland.	to my homeland.

- Alfred Mombert (1872-1942)
